Date: Monday, May 19, 2025 1:20:40 PM

Good afternoon commissioners.

I am bringing the attention to this committee regarding statewide lawsuits that have been brought against Municipal animal services in California.

These lawsuits have been filed by nonprofit animal rescues and individuals regarding the turning away of healthy animals from Municipal shelters , resulting in violation of the state law known as the Hayden Act.

This particular state law mandates that Municipal shelters taken stray and abandon animals.

In both lawsuits the plaintiffs have prevailed

In November of 2021 a animal sheltering consultant, known as Korets Shelters Medicine stated on a zoom meeting hosted by Contra Costa Animal Services then director Beth Ward, that are shelter would never take in healthy cats and kittens again.
This statement was made by Kate Hurley the president of this consulting firm.

This statement resulted in a policy that was adopted by Contra Costa Animal Services without a hearing or a resolution before the Board of Supervisors in this County

Also at this meeting Animal Services veterinarian Catherine Mills stated that they were cutting all spay and neuters specifically for outdoor Community cats known as TNR clinics.

The measure X funding request from Animal Services in 2022 stated that there were 450,000 indoor outdoor cats in Contra Costa County alone.

The grand jury report on Contra Costa Animal Services in 2021 stated that all non-mandated Services been turned over to local non-profits, with no funding attached or recommended.

The Hayden Act is a state mandate.

Since 2021 this is the scenario that has followed due to these above actions by Contra Costa Animal Services.

Citizens have called the shelter to have them intake stray or abandoned cats and kittens and have been turned away and been told to just leave them outside without recommending that they reach out and get them spayed and neutered through some unfunded non-profit program.

Small nonprofits have been buried in the overwhelming request for assistance not only in spay and neuters and vaccine but to take these animals into their systems to find fostering and adoptions.

At that time there was an estimated 450,000 indoor outdoor cats.
Contra Costa Animal Services failed to track the number of calls that were received where they turned away healthy cats and kittens. 4 years later no one has an estimate of how it increased the population.

These animals have become known as ghost animals and or invisible to the municipal shelter but not invisible to those of us in rescue or your citizens of the community on which they are left on the street.

The policy of turning away animals from shelters was to reduce their euthanasia rates that resulted in a overwhelming domestic animal overpopulation in this County.

Under the new leadership of Ben Winkle black the new animal service director, Trap meter in return clinics have been reenacted.

But the last 4 years of the violation of the Hayden Act,by not taking in stray and abandoned animals and cutting spay and neuter services has created a financial hardships on your local small non-profit rescues.

My goal with this commission is to find a solution and funding possibilities for small non-profit rescues that are now absorbing the animals that are being turned away from our Municipal shelter.

Although animal advocate groups are now suing counties individually, I do not think that is the solution and would only increase the euthanasia of cats and kittens if brought into the shelter

My other concern is there was a $900,000 estate given to Contra Costa Animal Services. Those of us in animal rescues would like a chance to comment on how this money is going to be used and is it going to be put into the animal benefit fund.

Please contact the animal service director and address these concerns for a future agenda item for this commission.

Ask Me Anything #8: Ghost Animals: The Unseen Crisis Behind Shelter Statistics

How Turning Away Animals Creates
Invisible Victims-and What True
Transparency in Animal Welfare Demands

ED BOKS

MAY 10

READ IN APP

Unseen Casualties in Animal Welfare

This 8th edition of Ask Me Anything tackles a vital question from Collette about one of animal welfare's most urgent and least visible crises: ghost animals - those animals turned away by shelters and never counted in official statistics.

Collette asks:

Have there been any attempted or completed studies on ghost animals turned away by shelters, and what happens to them?

The Data Gap

The unfortunate reality is that there are no comprehensive studies that systematically track the fate of these ghost animals. By their very nature, ghost animals are uncounted and untracked - excluded from shelter data and, as a result, from public awareness and policy discussions. This invisibility makes it nearly impossible to quantify how many animals are turned away or what ultimately happens to them.

The consequence of Managed Intake policies is a burgeoning population of intact stray animals undermining animal welfare and public safety.

Defining Ghost Animals and Managed Intake

As I explored in my article, “Ghost Animals: The Unseen Casualties,” the plight of animals turned away from shelters - and thus omitted from official statistics - remains a hidden emergency. Declining intake numbers and rising save rates may suggest progress, but these metrics mask the grim reality for animals denied entry.

Esther Mechler, founder of United Spay Alliance, defines ghost animals as those rejected by shelters due to managed intake policies designed to boost live-release rates. These animals are often abandoned, left to fend for themselves, and many do not survive. They are invisible to the system - unrecorded, unhelped, and too often forgotten.

Legal Challenges: Courts Take Notice

Recent legal challenges, such as the pivotal San Diego court ruling, have exposed the ethical and legal shortcomings of managed intake policies in California. The court affirmed that shelters cannot prioritize statistics over their duty to serve as safety nets for vulnerable animals, signaling a reckoning with the true scale of this crisis.

Case Study: Riverside County

Notably, the recent Riverside County lawsuit further underscores this shift. The court allowed key claims to proceed against the Department of Animal Services for failing to maintain proper records, provide adequate care, and comply with state animal welfare laws - practices that enable the invisibility of ghost animals. While the court did not directly rule on managed intake, its decision to hold shelters accountable for transparency and legal compliance signals that the days of opaque or neglectful intake practices may be numbered.

In my recent article, Context is King: How Intake and Euthanasia Data Reveal Riverside's Animal Crisis, I examine how, without robust sterilization programs, managed intake policies simply narrow the shelter's front door - leaving countless animals to multiply and suffer, unseen, throughout the community.

When Animals Disappear

The consequences are especially stark in states like California and Texas, where save rates lag behind the arbitrary and misleading “no-kill” benchmark promoted by some national organizations. Despite declining shelter admissions, these policies allow many animals to disappear from the system entirely, joining the ranks of ghost animals - unseen casualties of a system that values optics over lives.

Compounding the problem, national organizations* have shifted focus away from spay/neuter funding, undermining the most effective tool for preventing animal overpopulation. As sterilization programs wane, unaltered animals multiply, swelling the population of strays - and, inevitably, ghost animals.

A Call for Transparency and Accountability

To truly understand and address the impact of managed intake and “no-kill” claims, all shelters must be required to record and publicly report every animal turned away or redirected - not just those admitted. Transparent reporting is essential to measure real progress, identify gaps, and ensure that no animal is rendered invisible for the sake of statistics.

To address this crisis, we must:

- Reinvest in spay/neuter programs to prevent overpopulation at its source.
- Mandate comprehensive reporting on all animals encountered, including those turned away or diverted.
- Reevaluate managed intake policies to ensure shelters remain true safety nets for their communities.

Shining a Light on Ghost Animals

The story of America’s ghost animals is one of invisibility, but it doesn’t have to be one of inevitability. By confronting the hard truths behind our shelter numbers and committing to real solutions, we can ensure that progress is measured not just in statistics, but in the lives we save - and the lives we refuse to ignore.

National Organizations

The term “national organizations” refers to the country’s largest and most influential animal welfare groups. These organizations collectively shape sheltering policy, funding priorities, and public messaging in the United States, and together contribute more than $100 million annually to animal welfare efforts.

Some advocates refer to these organizations as a “Consortium” to highlight their informal alliance and outsized influence on shelter policy - sometimes at the expense of prevention, transparency, and public safety. Their joint policy statements and funding decisions often set the direction for shelters nationwide, impacting how data is reported and which programs receive support.

Meeting Date: July 21, 2025

Subject: Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council Annual Update

Submitted For: Esa Ehmen-Krause, Chief Probation Officer

Department: Probation

Referral No: n/a

Presenter: Chief Esa Ehmen-Krause

Contact: Deborah Caldwell 925-313-4188

Referral History:

On February 13, 2018, the Board of Supervisors referred to the Public Protection Committee (PPC) a review of the production of the County's Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan. Submittal of this plan is a condition of receiving annual Juvenile Justice Crime Prevention Act (JJCPA) and Youthful Offender Block Grant (YOBG) funds.

In 2018, the PPC accepted an introductory report on the County's Multi-Agency Juvenile Justice Plan, including a summary of the Juvenile Justice Commission (JJC), the Delinquency Prevention Commission (DPC) and the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council (JJCC). During the meeting, the Committee noted that the County has two advisory bodies that are charged with similar duties; specifically, the DPC and the JJCC. They directed staff to return to the Board of Supervisors to combine the functions of the DPC and JJCC.

On December 4, 2018, the Board of Supervisors introduced Ordinance 2018-30, which dissolved the DPC and adopted Resolution 2018/597 increasing the size of the JJCC to 19 members and designating the JJCC the body to coordinate county-wide juvenile delinquency prevention activities. The adoption of the ordinance and resolution effectuated the dissolution of the DPC.

Referral Update:

The attached presentation and oral presentation of the materials by the Probation Department at this meeting will provide an update of the JJCC and the JJCPA and YOBG budgets.

Recommendation(s)/Next Steps:

Referral No: Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council

Referral History:

The Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council (JJCC) is a multiagency advisory body that informs the development and implementation of a countywide juvenile justice plan composed of several critical parts, including, but not limited to an assessment of existing law enforcement, probation, education, mental health, health, social services, drug and alcohol and youth services resources which specifically target both at-risk as well as system-involved youth, and their families. The JJCC also coordinates on a countywide basis the work of those governmental and non-governmental organizations engaged in activities designed to reduce the incidence of juvenile crime and delinquency in the greater community, develop information and intelligence-sharing systems to ensure that county actions are fully coordinated, and provide data and appropriate outcome measures.

The JJCC is composed of 20 members:

Twelve (12) Ex-Officio Members which include the Chief Probation Officer (Chair), District Attorney's Office representative, Public Defender's Office representative, Sheriff's Office representative, Board of Supervisors' representative, Employment and Human Services Department representative, Behavioral Health Services representative, Alcohol and Other Drugs Division representative, Public Health representative, Juvenile Justice, Commission Chair, City Police Department representative, County Office of Education or a School District representative.

Eight (8) additional voting members are appointed by the Board of Supervisors as follows:

Qualifications and Volunteer Experience

Please explain why you would like to serve on this particular board, committee, or commission.

I have been on this board since 2023 and would like to continue to support programs and policies that reduce juvenile crimes and incarcerations. I want to support programs that aim at preventing youth from crimes. I want to see that young people who drop out of school to be trained in skillful jobs, offered character education, and provided mental health interventions timely. Preventing juvenile crimes should extends to making certain services available to the parents and family whose socioeconomic or health conditions directly or indirectly impacts young people's behaviors or encourage crime behaviors. There is a great need to plan interventions to kids from school records of children who show signs of struggle or inclination to crimes.

Describe your qualifications for this appointment. (NOTE: you may also include a copy of your resume with this application)

Over 15 years as an educator has given me some insight into some problems young people encounter. I have a higher degree in public health and experienced working with community-based organizations to address youth behavioral risk-factors. Through research and experience, I have become aware of the factors that cause youth in my community to engage in criminal acts that bring them into the juvenile system. I have researched and known some solutions to juvenile problems. I am equally very passionate about giving young people the opportunity to make a change in their lives. I hold the Certified Health Education Specialist (CHES) qualification, and I am committed to advocating for policy changes that will improve outreach to young people early in their lives before they become victims of crimes. I have also served on this commission since 2023, and my experience will continue to make useful contributions to efforts to prevent and control juvenile criminality or involvement.

Qualifications and Volunteer Experience

Please explain why you would like to serve on this particular board, committee, or commission.

I would like to serve on the Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council, because it is in alignment with my personal and professional goal to invest in the prevention of youth mass incarceration. West and East county are in need of funding for incarceration prevention such as youth employment, diversion programs, and youth mentorships. Serving on this council will give me the opportunity to give input from a system-impacted perspective and leverage my ability engage my community, who has been impacted by incarceration in this process. With the closure of the Division of Juvenile Justice in California and youth being sent to their county's local Juvenile Halls, there is a necessity to strengthen community's resources to guarantee a safe return.

Describe your qualifications for this appointment. (NOTE: you may also include a copy of your resume with this application)

My qualifications for this appointment come from working for 2.5 years with the Young Women's Freedom Center as a Program Manager for system-impacted young women and transgender youth of all genders. I have created curriculums that are designed to resonate and empower those directly or indirectly impacted by mass incarceration. Living in impoverished communities and building relationships with those directly impacted by mass incarceration inform my work to prevent youth being involved with the Juvenile Justice system. Another aspect of my work that qualifies me to serve on this council is building relationships with elected officials to mobilize communities needs and create change.
