| Bed/Housing     | 7/15/2024               | P-0106                    | 7/15/2024      | Active    | In certain cases initially marked as approved have subsequently been classified as denied. The underlying reason for this change in status is largely attributable to the individuals in question experiencing a relapse shortly after their placement in a Sober Living Environment (SLE). This setback underscores the challenges faced by those in recovery and highlights the delicate nature of maintaining sobriety in the early stages of support programs. Despite initially meeting all requirements for grant approval, the individuals' relapses necessitate a reassessment of their eligibility for continued support under the grant, as maintaining a stable and drug-free environment is crucial for the intended success of the housing initiatives. As such, these decisions are made with the goal of ensuring resources are allocated where they can be most effectively utilized in supporting long-term recovery pathways. |

In our ongoing efforts to provide comprehensive support for individuals battling substance abuse, we have successfully placed a number of clients in residential treatment facilities, specifically at Pueblos. These placements represent clients who have completed the necessary assessments and demonstrated readiness to begin their intensive treatment journey. Meanwhile, clients marked as "pending" are those with whom we are actively engaged within the jail system and homeless. These individuals are currently navigating the preparatory stages for treatment placement and are awaiting available openings at suitable residential facilities. This status reflects our dedication to ensuring that all clients receive the appropriate level of care and support necessary to facilitate their recovery, while also highlighting the ongoing collaboration with correctional facilities to address the transitional needs of these individuals as they prepare for life-changing treatment opportunities.

In our initiative to effectively address Substance Use Disorders (SUD) among the inmate population, we conduct targeted workshops within the jails with the primary objective of assessing and identifying individuals who exhibit a readiness and suitability for SUD treatment. These workshops serve as a crucial evaluation tool, designed to discern inmates who demonstrate motivation for change and a willingness to engage in recovery efforts. By focusing on key indicators of readiness, such as engagement during sessions, openness to counseling, and a proactive attitude towards rehabilitation, we are able to selectively filter participants. This strategic approach ensures that upon their release from custody, we can offer comprehensive treatment opportunities to those individuals most prepared and committed to transforming their lives. This process not only maximizes our resources but also enhances the likelihood of successful recovery outcomes, supporting our broader goals of reducing recidivism and promoting healthier, productive lives post-release.

Recovery is a complex journey that extends beyond personal sobriety, requiring support in navigating social, legal, and bureaucratic challenges. Family reunification plays a vital role in providing emotional support and stability, essential elements that bolster one's commitment to maintaining a sober lifestyle. Moreover, obtaining necessary identification documents, such as IDs and birth certificates, is critical for unlocking access to employment, housing, and other crucial societal services. By addressing these logistical hurdles, we empower our clients to focus on their recovery without the added burden of systemic barriers. Additionally, our services encompass a broader spectrum of support, including legal assistance and guidance in accessing educational and vocational opportunities, ensuring a comprehensive approach to facilitating long-term recovery and integration into society. |

| Focus Group |            | 9/24/2024  | P-0154    | 9/24/2024 | Active | Our ongoing commitment to supporting families affected by addiction is exemplified through the provision of women-focused groups, designed specifically to empower women seeking to assist their loved ones in combating addiction. These groups offer a supportive and educational environment where women can share experiences, gain valuable insights, and acquire effective strategies for supporting their family members on the recovery journey. Through interactive sessions led by experienced facilitators, participants learn about the complexities of addiction, the importance of boundary-setting, and techniques to encourage engagement with recovery services. Additionally, the focus groups foster a sense of community and mutual support, emphasizing the critical role that family can play in recovery. By equipping women with the tools and knowledge needed to approach their loved ones' addiction with empathy and understanding, we aim to strengthen familial bonds and improve recovery outcomes, ultimately contributing to healthier, more resilient families. |
